To Whom It May Concern:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter to remove a public defender.

This lawyer refuses to try and pursue a course of action that would aid his client (myself). This removal was suggested after a few inquiries about the public defender's attitude to the client.

But a search, after suggested leads, exposes a serious problem in Wisconsin as to the application of "psychological evaluations" to the mentally challenged persons: there are NO means of accountability. We have seen Tina Hayden be verbally abused just before two of her psychological evaluations, probably revoking their pre-paid, "foregone conclusions".

The point that I am trying to put emphasis upon, is when the person is of enough self-awareness to know they are being mentally, verbally, and psychologically abused (and sometimes, physically and sexually abused).

Tina Lynn Hayden knew she was being abused, and reported it as such: (to the Chippewa County Sheriff, the Human Services, and to Dr. Robert Peck). They all ignored her pleas.

This is a woman who is 30+ years, has had a job for most of her adult life, had bought a van with a wheelchair lift, and paid her bills. She could sign for her own contracts, and make normal decisions for her life.

Yet, now, after she was betrayed and put under a guardianship against her will, they are saying she never could make her own choices.

After over two years of being under an abusive guardianship, Tina has serious problems that didn't exist when she was a free person.

Can you help such a person? Could you help others from pre-paid "foregone conclusions" ?

"There is no right to deny freedom to anyone with a mind that can grasp the concept and desire the state of being free." (anon)

Tina Hayden wanted to be free of abuse, not to surrender her freedom.

Tina Hayden is still being abused. "Freedom is without price."

Which is why I am still fighting for Tina's rights, and why her abusers are retaliating against me with false charges.

Respectfully,
